

Robert H. Bork, Jr.

President, Antitrust Education Project

Robert H. Bork, Jr., is an experienced advocate specializing in the development and implementation of communication strategies in support of litigation and legal policy. He is the President of the Antitrust Education Project, and recently republished his father's book, The Antitrust Paradox: A Policy at War with Itself. In his many years of experience managing the public environment surrounding high-risk, high-profile litigation, he has worked on behalf of CEOs and general counsel of major U.S. and international corporate clients and their lawyers.

Contact: rbork@borkgroup.com

Websites: www.antitrusteducationproject.org | www.borkgroup.com

Twitter: @antitrustedu